The excuses offered by the chain gang prisoners sentenced at the Criminal Sessions on Friday for their attempted escape are characteristic of the views entertained by the Chinese criminal classes with reference to the Hongkong Gaol. Instead of looking upon it as a place of punishment they have been accustomed to regard it as a luxurious hotel, the comforts of which might be enliberty. If its shelter was not actually "Iolanthe." sought, it was at least held in no great dread, the criminal when detected and convicted reconciling himself without difficulty to pass a period in the gaol, and even deriving some enjoyment from his residence there. Of late a different policy has been adopted by the Government in its treatment of criminals, and with markedly good results, for there is no doubt that the Gael is now looked upon as a less desirable place of residence than ormerly, and that the present disciplin exercises a deterrent influence. singular that the conduct of the officers one half of $500, as it was only one half of the of the Gaol responsible for the recent the Government. It is not unreasonable to expect, however, that the last affair of the kind, attended as it was by loss of life, will put the officers on the alert to prevent the repetition of anything of the kind in future The increase in the salaries recently voted will encourage a better class of men to enter and remain in the subordinate positions, which will have a wholesome effect, not only in the internal management of the gaol, but also in guarding the chain gong while at work. Of the complaints made by the prisoners on Friday, not one deserves a moment's consideration. The majority of the Chinese working population go about barefooted; the prisoners working in the chain day. gang (bink they ought to be provided with leather sandale; they consider the food not the crank drill. The complaints they receive are for the most part of the most frivolous nature, but where anything serious is brought to their notice it in Mr. Becher's position in the company's service is duly inquired into. Naturally, however, the Justices do not forget that the Gaol is a to dispose of portions of their concession to place of punishment, and where the complaints concern the regular discipline of the Gael they receive no attention. It is not intended that the Gaol should be luxurious, the work easy, or guol life pleasant, but in any case where brutahty on the part of the officers to the prisoners can be shown the visiting

"It appears to be the practice of the National Provincial Bank of England to bind its clerks under a penalty of £1,000 not to accept employment from any other bank within twenty miles of the locality where they have been in the service of the National Provincial for two years after leaving their service. That is a very unusual condition of service so far as banks are concerned, but Mr. Justice Butt's interpretation of the contract is much more harsh. A clark took service in another bank within the prescribed time, and offered to pay the fine of £1,000 But this did not satisfy his late employers, who moved the Court to restrain him, and actually got an injunction from Mr. Justice Butt. From this it would appear that in the opinion of the judge no clerk who has served in the Nations. TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR.-I have been connected with several iterary and debating societies, and have generally found that one of the chief difficulties was to find subjects for the papers or debates. To enable the Hongkong society to get over this initial difficulty, will you allow me to suggest that a programme something like the following be arranged :--The President—Opening address:—Fluency of speech : how to attain it

Dr. Cantlie—How to ingratiate oneself with the Rev. W. Jennings-How to make sermons in Mr. Francis-The bore of the Sanitary Board:

how to treat him. Ar. Whitehead and Mr. Stewart-Lockhart— Debate: Should the hair be parted in the middle or at the side. Mr. Judd—The necessity of a reduction in telegraphic rates to China Mr. Ford-How to grow the flowers of rhetoric. Smoking concert, the Bishon in the chair.

This, I think, will be as long a programme as the Society will be able to get through this winter, seeing that two months of the season are already past .- Yours, etc., .. DEBATER. Hongkong, 24th November, 1888.

THE MINSTREL'S SONG (From the German of E. Geibel.

And though you put twirt her and me Steep hill, deep dale and see. You cannot, cannot part us twain. For song, my Lorda, has wings; I am a minetrel and would fain Set out on journeyings; Henceforth, my only song shall be . Of Love, sweet Love and thee : I love thee, sweet! Ah! I love thee!

My delight! My pain!
I love thee, sweet! Ah! Kiss me A thousand times again ! And as I wander through the dell Where finch and mayis dwell. They quickly learn the oft-heard sour nd with it pour their throats: And then the moorland breeze so strong Hears too the well-known notes, And carries them o'er streams and rills And far away o'er hills: I love thee, smeet! Ah! I love thee!

My delight and pain!
I love thee, sweet! Ah! Kiss me

A thousand times again. Past town and thorp, through corn and grass, I hum it as I pass: The village maiden at the well Soon sings the wondrous strain; The hunter's voice, I hear it swell And join in the refrain :

The fisher out at sea, too, flings His not, then slowly sings: I love thee, sweet! Ah! I love thee! My delight! My pain!
I love thes, sweet! Ah! Kiss me A thousand times again. The wind so fresh, the birds so gay,

I love thee, sweet! Ah! Kiss me

Ten thousand times again,

The maid, the hunter, nay, All these and more, my message take And carry it to thee, When thus it must at last awake And speak aloud of me. Thus wand'ring o'er the lone wide earth I have one song of mirth: I love thee, sweet! Ah! I love them! My delight and pain!

ART AND LOVE.

(Sully Prudhomme: Les vaines tendresses He vainly sighs, unable to remain And round the tallestflily gently plays.

Sloep on my bosom! says the flow'r with boldness;
Nor proud nor silent am I in thy right, And summer leaps in me neath my pale coldness Thy ceaseless whirlings only can deceive:

I feel thy fever-burning sight embrace me.

I'm true! O, thou who hast no root, why leave!

Yet, if thou must begone, then why enlace me? th me! he says. I am a soul in vain : Caprice and anguish are the same, alas! Vatch yonder cloud : wait till my breath again Has given form and his to its huge mass. Then go! she says, and afterwards return;
I love thes; do not say adieu, my mon.

Because to-night, when the wide heavens burn With throbbing stars, I shall be thine alone. I shall not fail, the wind says, and is gone, Filled wholly with a sense of hope embalmed; he flow'r still bends, and ardent, trembles on Her slender stalk, and by degrees is calmed. Deep in his work is he, and she in dreams; What use a meeting-place when all is o'et?

Are past, both wind and lily are no more.

For when Night comes, and storm and lightning gleams

I wish to love all things, and yet am not content.
The causes of my grief being thereby multiplied;
Innumerable bonds, frail and inconsequent, Attach me to this world by agnics so decried. All things have charm for me, all draw with equal force,

A kiss my mouth, if she who gives it loves, believes. My life depends on all these many fragile ties, And I am captive to a thousand things each day; Nay, at the smallest trembling shock that may arise. I feel some part of my own self is torn away.

> VOLUPTUOUSNESS. Bully Prudhomme: Les vaines tendresses

Englayed are they by that all-dreaded victor Desire-held firmly bound until Death sets hem free; sometimes the jailer, tired, forgets, And then the shamoful bonds have less of rigonr. And yet they both, at times, o'ercome with languor, Are filled with vain, but unfulfilled regrets; Each tries to break the galling chain, and lets

Though undoubtedly permitted to transact business during the days he was confined to his own house, which could not be the same thing as being in his business premises, his detention might have caused great loss and inconvenience to the Bank, but it is believed fortunately not to have done any real harm. The whole affair arose through a half: caste clerk (who had been dismissed in the Bank some timeage with a year's pay )informing against the Bank of certain transactions executed by it and very many houses of commerce in this city for many years. # THE ENGLISH MAIL.

The P. & O. steamer Clude, with the English mail of the 26th October, arrived hero yesterday. The following telegrams are from Ceylon and Rangoon papers:-

THE STANLEY EXPEDITION. ZENZIBAR, let November. Couriers, who have just arrived here from Tabura, report that the Arabs trading in the interior met Stanley's rear-guard as the end of last November to the west of Lake Albert Nyanza and south-east of Sanga. Stanley was then two days' march ahead. The strength of the expedition had been reduced to two hundred and fifty. Great suffering had been experienced in travelling through forest and marshy regions, and fights with natives for food had been numerous. Many of the party are dead and missing and forty were drowned in crossing a river. Stanley himself was well, but he and the majority of his escort had just recovered from fever, which caused a halt of three weeks. Stanley hoped to reach Wadelai in January last.

The couriers who arrived at Zanzibar on the 1st, state that one of Stanley's white companions is dead. It is known in London that Stanley had not arrived at Wadelai up to March. THE SACRVILLE WEST INCIDENT. LONDON, 7th November. The papers relating to the Sackville West incident show that Mr. Phelps, the American Minister at London complained to Lord Salisbury especially regarding the statements made by Sir Lionel Sackville-West to the reporters who had interviewed him and which cast certain reflection on President Cleveland, Mr. Phelps the nasked that Sir Lionel Backville West might be recalled and Lord Salisbury declined to comply with the request until he saw the statements in question, thereupon Sir Lionel's passports were handed to him. POST-OFFICE: NOTICES.

For the convenience of the public a Peak deivery will be commenced on Monday, the 19th inst. Letter boxes have been placed in the tram cars and correspondence will be delivered by the twelve and four o'clock cars only. Local rates will be charged. Correspondence addressed to the Peak may be posted in the General Post Office up to 11.30 s.m. and 3.30 p.m., or in the Letter Boxes in the cars till time of departure, Correspondence from the Peak may be posted in the Letter Hoxes up to twelve and four c'clock. There will be no Sunday delivery. Covers containing bank notes, jewellery, &c., should not be posted. To avoid robbery senders of letters are requested to cancel their stamps by writing the word 'stamped' across

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover. Sent to ----, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs: it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.
